In a spirit of sincere esteem and genuine appreciation, we dedicate the 1956 Ariel to two educators whose creative contributions to the liberal arts ideal are evidences of their unfailing devotion to the experience of learning and understanding.

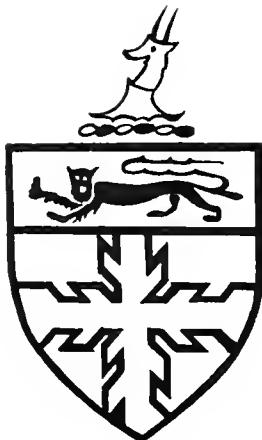

... Mr. Warren Beck, an able guide into the realm of literature, whose keen perception of the vital principles of life and the ideals of humanity endows him with the power to animate fiction for all those who study under him. Through his readiness to believe in the capabilities of every pupil, this patient educator offers encouragement and constructive criticism in a gentle and sympathizing manner. Advancing beyond the educational field, however, Mr. Beck has exercised his creative abilities to earn a distinguished reputation as fiction writer and critic. As a teacher, an author, and a person of the greatest sensitivity and understanding, Mr. Beck has proven himself well-deserving of our deepest admiration and respect.

... Mr. LaVahn Maesch, under whose deeply respected leadership the Lawrence Conservatory of Music endeavors to offer a richly creative, educational environment and to provide, for the surrounding community, professional performance of exceptionally high caliber. A teacher, administrator, lecturer, composer, and performer, Mr. Maesch is a dynamic inspiration to all engaged with him in the learning experience. His anxiety to impart his insights and musicianship to his students is personal and genuine; his demand for perfection is sparked by an enthusiasm and vigorous spirit, radiantly apparent in every phase of his work. For the investment of his years and for the dedication of his self, Mr. Maesch has truly merited our highest esteem and our humblest gratitude.

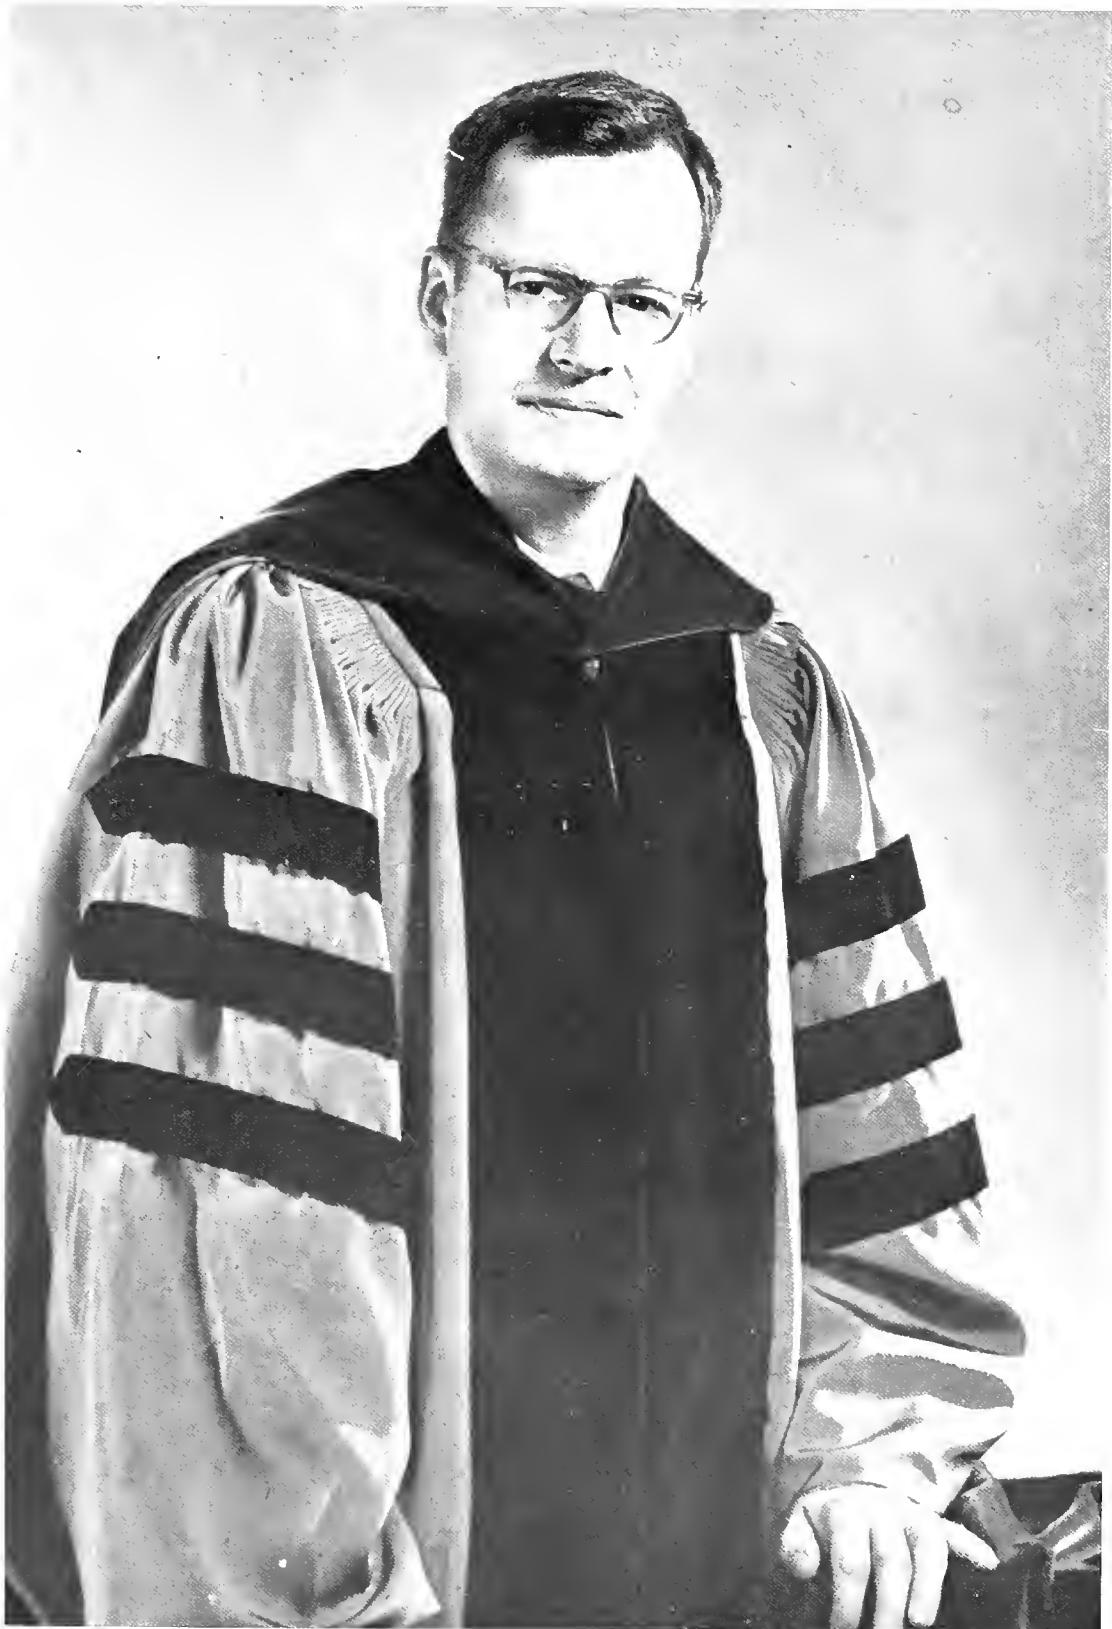

Our society at its best, and therefore our education at its best, are founded on a paradox, a tension between the maximum of individual freedom and the maximum of individual responsibility. This tension causes us often to be misunderstood by other cultures, and it causes us sometimes to misunderstand ourselves. For we swing between a desire to set up controls for our society which will be so foolproof that no one can tamper with them, and a desire to free ourselves from external restraint completely on the theory that what is good for any individual is ultimately good for the body politic.

We see this tremendous range of assumptions, not only in our economic theory and practice but also in the way we think about discipline in raising our children, even in the way we picture the good life in our advertising. In all these widely divergent cases we find a spectrum of attitudes which does not have a simple logical relation of its parts, but does coherently and vigorously maintain that freedom and order can co-exist. And this equal preoccupation with order and freedom gives us a new view of the major liberal disciplines: the disciplined understanding which comes through literature; the sense of time present in relation to time past which only history can develop; precision in thinking about the social world and the physical world as the sciences can suggest it; an awareness of the varieties of pattern and order which come through mathematics and art. In all these cases a kind of relationship is taught, not a mere body of fact or even interpretation of evidence. These are the liberal arts, the arts of free men, for what makes us free is understanding how aspects of experience relate to one another, comment on one another, and reveal one another. And in this persistent exploration of relationship we assert our equal belief in the order which can result from it, and the individual freedom which must underlie it.

The Lawrence Alumni Association has for its purpose the establishment and maintenance of a mutually beneficial relationship between the college and its alumni, the promotion of the welfare of Lawrence College, and the advancement of the individual interests of the members of the association. All students who have been in attendance at Lawrence College for a period of not less than one year are eligible for membership in the association. To become a member you merely notify the Alumni Relations office of your correct mailing address. The legislative and executive powers of the association are entrusted to a board of twelve directors who are elected by the alumni body. From within this group or from other qualified members of the Association are chosen a president, two vice presidents, a secretary, and a treasurer. To afford members of the Alumni Association the opportunity of keeping in close contact with the school, alumni clubs are presently serving many geographical areas. The association encourages recent graduates to attend the meetings of Alumni Clubs and continue a relationship with other Lawrence Alumni. All information concerning alumni, alumni clubs, commencement, reunions, association finances, and the Alumnus magazine can be obtained by writing the Alumni Relations office in care of the college.

When the red- and gold-leaved trees sway, propelled by a slightly-frosted breeze, and the crisp waves of the Fox glitter gaily in the late afternoon sun, then Appleton, Wisconsin becomes a miniature melting pot of the world. From every corner of the U.S.A., and from foreign countries too, students pour into the city to establish themselves for the coming nine months in the friendly settlement called Lawrence College. As soon as the freshmen hit the campus, they are swooped up in the flood of activity and swirled through that exciting time known as "New Student Week." Dances, convos, and exchange dinners introduce the new buds on the family tree to Lawrence society. And, of course, there is Rush Week! The Greeks put on their best smiles and charming manners, trying to woo the cream of the crop. Classes begin, and the perpetual grind of studying commences. Activities claim the attention of those who can squeeze out extra time from their full schedules. On Saturdays, everyone turns out to spur the football and cross-country teams on to victory. Highlighting the first few months of academic pursuit, Homecoming brings with it a festive atmosphere. Alums return to their alma mater to root for the team; the Greeks display their artistic talents in floats and house decorations; and dorms undergo a face-lifting with crepe paper and poster paint. Climaxing all is the Homecoming dance, with couples swaying sleepily to the soft music. While the brisk air outside echoes the melodies from within, dry-leaved trees nod approval to the end of a busy and happy autumn at Lawrence.

The grace and beauty of poetry, the color and lines of a painting, the means of expression in many tongues, the human life made vivid on the stage, the meaning of life and nature through the Greeks . . . all this we have discovered at Lawrence. Our own lives become more meaningful and beautiful through our study of the values and the aesthetics of others.

APPLIED MUSIC

THEORY and COMPOSITION

MUSIC EDUCATION

A performer's life is not an easy one, but Lawrence Conservatory provides a good background for those who have the potential ability—whether it be for a string, woodwind, or brass instrument, piano, organ or voice. The concentration is put on the student's special interest, but they are also required to have fundamental theory and music history. The harried looking juniors and seniors in this field are preparing for their recitals, the sophomores are excited at the prospect of the next two years, and the ever eager freshmen are beginning to realize the work involved in college.

Prospective composers, performers, and teachers—eyes to the future! This conservatory major is designed to give the student a foundation in music theory closely related to his actual musical experience. There is such a limited and competitive field open to graduates, however, that permission is necessary, upon completion of freshman and sophomore conservatory subjects, to select this major.

Public school teaching and music mix well, as any conservatory practice teacher will tell you. This music education course equips the graduate to teach as well as supervise public school music. A student with a major in this course must also have an academic teaching minor and is expected to become an excellent theoretical and practical musician.

The various language clubs give the students the opportunity to speak their language outside of the classroom and to learn about the country and its way of life.

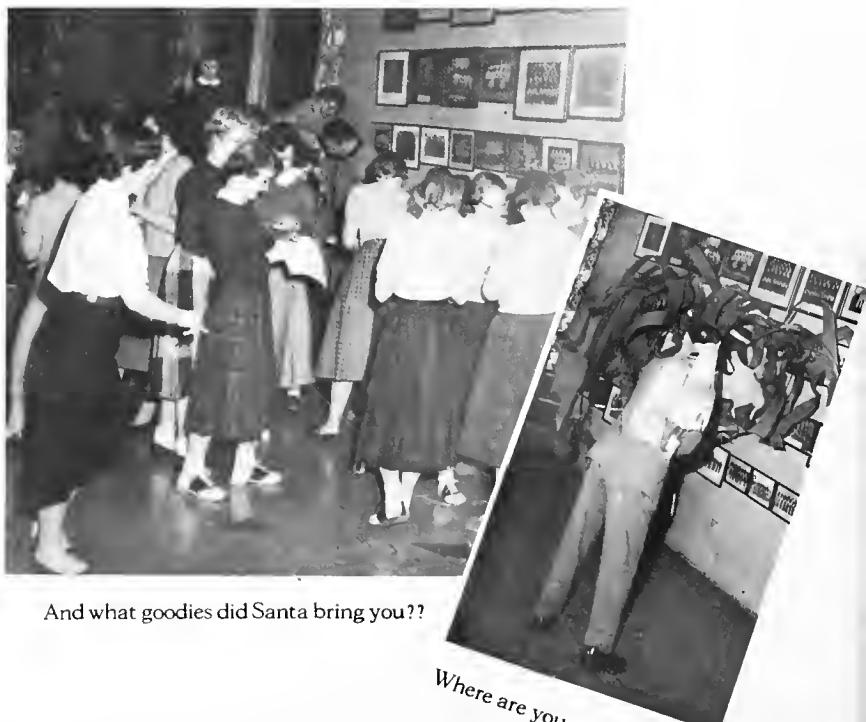

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

Speaking in French about France, at the French Club, through the media of movies, lectures, and conversation, gives French students on advanced levels a deeper and more varied insight into that continental country. In carrying out the French traditions of entertainment and culture, Le Cercle Francais combined all its resources to provide a well rounded program for the year.

Shumaker, Meikle, Washburn, Cantwell, Milz, Huffman, Nunn, Hirsch, Barbeau, McKnight, Achenbach, Semple, Carole Johnson.

LOS CHARLAORES

In monthly meetings the members of Los Charladores come together to increase their ability in speaking the language and becoming acquainted with the arts and customs of Spain. Membership is limited to those students who have completed three college semesters of Spanish. However, the club presented several open meetings for those who were interested in the language and culture of Spanish-speaking peoples. These programs included the traditional Christmas party with the breaking of the pinata.

And what goodies did Santa bring you??

Where are you going, Señor??

Christmas Party

Tangen, Timmermann, Deppe, Wilton, Miss Friedlander, Burck, Fallgatter.

Deutscher Verein offers the German students an opportunity to become better acquainted with Germany and the spoken language. In addition to the usual singing, auf Deutsch, and goodies, this year's programs featured slides on Germany, a talk by Manfred Mundelius, and last, but not least, an old fashioned German dinner with guest singer Marlene Dietrich (on records of course).

DEUTSCHER VEREIN

Officers: Larsh, Smykal, Dyrud-Chairman, Landis, Wolfe.

This fall the Young Republicans Club was organized on campus to promote an understanding of the two party system and to discuss national affairs among young adults of voting or near voting age.

The group took part in the forthcoming presidential election and in the spring primaries. Rallies, parades, debates, and picnics are a few of the other activities carried on by the Y.G.O.P.

Do you know what the SEC does?

This is the group that organizes the student body and carries out its wishes. It has a controlling voice in every student activity group on campus and is the board which keeps the "Lawrence Community" running smoothly. The Student Executive Committee represents YOU!

STUDENT EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

May, Challoner, Dresback.

What! no competition!!!

The 1955 Student Body President election presented the Lawrence voter with a unique situation. Gone were the competition and noisy campaigns of past years, for Dave Challoner was the only candidate.

During his term Dave has rejuvenated the method for the election of the SEC Sub-Committee heads, and next year's Homecoming Queen will be chosen by the entire student body to reign for all Homecoming festivities.

Lawrence Women's Association is Lawrence!! This is the organization through which Lawrence women govern themselves; they make the rules and then abide by them. But, all the functions of LWA are not serious. They also plan and sponsor the After Hours Sing, the Best Loved Banquet, the Senior Tea, and Mayday, among other things.

It is hard to believe that this cheery group could ever punish anyone. But that is exactly the function of the Judicial Board. These rule-enforcers give every offender an individual hearing and then let the axe fall (with all fairness of course).

HEAD COUNSELORS

*Carol Adams
Park*

When the freshmen women arrived at Lawrence last fall, these gals were here to give advice and suggestions just as they did the entire year. These junior women counsel the "freshies" on the affairs of the heart, studies, and social etiquette so that their charges may enjoy a rich, full college life; yet their hardest and most thankless task seems to be keeping the noise in those abodes, called dorms, to a "college roar."

Standing: Bast, Chandler, Kellogg, Swearingen, R. Clapp, Scambler, Bonde.
Seated: W. Schmidt, Dean Walter, W. Nelson.

Although they have been known to "walk softly and carry a big stick," the men's counselors are not the stern upholders of law and order that they might make you think. While it is occasionally necessary to wade into a friendly melee to restore peace and order, counselors serve chiefly as ever present reminders of "quiet hours" and as fountainheads of information for the men in the dorm, and are human enough not to be averse to an all night bull-session or helping a fellow settle his problems and difficulties regardless of whether they are academic, social, or otherwise.

Alpha Delta Pi spirit shone beautifully, under the guidance of Joan Brussat and Susie Ewald, throughout the hectic round of Dream Parties and Wishing Well ceremonies. Rushing culminated in the Sunday night pledging of twenty-three enthusiastic and wonderful freshman girls. One of the fall highlights was the pledge formal, given with the Pi Phis, which presented all twenty-three pledges to the public eye. Still breathless from the first weeks of classes, pledges and actives turned immediately to Homecoming and the Alpha Delta Pi float entry. The group worked enthusiastically and tirelessly until the finishing touches of long black eyelashes and pink curly tail adorned the blue and white victory pig, which was destined to take third place in the Homecoming Parade. Amid the whirl of social events and sorority sports, A D Pis do take time out to consider the serious side of college life—one evidence being given by the election of Joan Bernthal to Phi Beta Kappa. The holiday season arrived and the A D Pis donned bright jackets, woolen underwear, and joined the Phi Taus in a Christmas serenade. Our traditional sorority Christmas party was brightened by a Santa Claus wearing a red night-shirt and wooden shoes, who tossed gaily-wrapped popcorn balls in every direction. We also thought of Christmas in another way. The group combined efforts and sent presents to the Northern Wisconsin Colony and Training School, a home for the mentally deficient. We have whirled through the first semester, and are eagerly looking forward to the events of the next.

We dedicate this to the "faithful five,"
Our seniors who have waited long for graduation to arrive—
Carol, Nancy, Janie, Carrie, and Tim—
Who have stayed and worked through times bright and dim.
Their last fall semester has come and gone,
And now they'll have memories, that will linger long,
Of their sorority together at business or play,
Preparing for rush or Homecoming Day.
There in plain sight as the float passed by
Was our slogan: "Carleton had Butter-Fly!"
We worked and toiled and thought it grand,
Although a prize it didn't land;
But we all had fun and, full of cheer,
Resolved to do better the next year.
To show our pledges how proud we've been,
We dined and danced at the Valley Inn.
Now lest we forget (as if we could)
Our wonderful alums who are so good.
Thank you, Alums, one and all,
For the help you gave us this fall.
So "faithful five" as life continues in skips and hops,
Like all our alums we know you'll be tops!

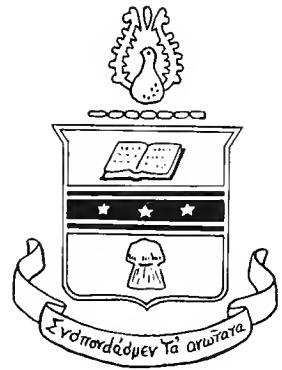

Lola Hunting, President.

1955-1956, another big year for Delta Gamma. Fall and the whirl of rushing, headed by Waneta Esch and Mary Bosser, brought twenty wearers of the gold and white shield who proved to be quite a terrific group of girls. They were presented by pledge-mistress, Kay Bayer, at their annual dinner-dance at the Riverview Country Club. The pledges, with Karen Anderson in charge, honored the sorority with a first place Homecoming float. Delta Gamma was again well represented in the Homecoming Royalty, with Carol Bowman reigning as queen and Ellie Barber as one of the attendants. Delta Gamma began the year sport-wise by placing in the hockey tournament, and continued to stay near the top throughout the year. One of the outstanding events of the fall was co-sponsored by the D G's who, with the Phi Delts, put on a very successful jam session featuring the "Salty Dogs" from Purdue. Christmas came, and not any too soon for the vacationless Lawrentians, and found the Delta Gammas joining forces with the Betas for a bit of caroling under the direction of Bobby King and Clay Williams. The pledges gave a Christmas party for the actives complete with entertainment, presents, and Santa Claus. First on the schedule for second semester was initiation, which was followed in rapid succession by the fashion show benefitting the national project, the annual Founder's Day Banquet in March, the Pan-Hellenic Ball, and finally, the spring picnic in honor of the seniors—a busy and successful year with many memories.

Fall, '55, was a preview of a big year to come for the Thetas. Under the successful leadership of Barbara Anderson and Cindy Perry, rushing started off with a flourish, and twenty-three terrific pledges were brought into the fold. They and the Delt pledges made their debut at a combined formal early in October. Under the guidance of Dini Hobbet, pledge president, and the eagle eye of Char Darling, our little sisters have pleased us more each day. Our Homecoming float, in the form of a huge ash tray and cigarette, with the slogan "We'll Smoke em Out," brought our pledges their first triumph by winning second place in the competition. Needless to say we were all very proud when Sandy Holbrook appeared in the Homecoming Court. Theta was honored with a visit from Mrs. Gonser, our national vice-president. She was entertained at a tea to which the other sororities were invited. Early in December we became better acquainted with our alums at a festive holiday tea. Still in the Christmas mood, we donned our ski sweaters and boots and joined voices with those of the Phi Dels, and serenaded the dorms under the able direction of Marci Grimm and Phil May. After this cheerful but cold evening it was gratifying to sit in front of a bright fire and drink hot cocoa at the Phi Delt house. Peggy Landis deserves a round of applause from the whole chapter, and a special cheer from our four cheerleaders, Karen Krieger, Sue Faber, Kay Merley, and Carolyn Johnson, for winning the Phi Beta Kappa scholarship for her outstanding scholastic record. With such a spectacular start, we are eagerly looking forward to another wonderful year with Kappa Alpha Theta.

It doesn't take a lot of words to say,
"This has been a good year!"

We love our new sisters.

We had fun making our frowsy, ferocious lion for the Homecoming Parade.

Jan and her teammates led us to victory in the bowling tournament.

Our athletic teams played hard and won more games than they lost.

Barb, Nat, Normie, and Anne wore Mortar Board pins,

And Barb, Nat, and Anne dangled Phi Beta keys.

Some of us joined the "pin and ring" club,

And honors galore fell upon others' shoulders.

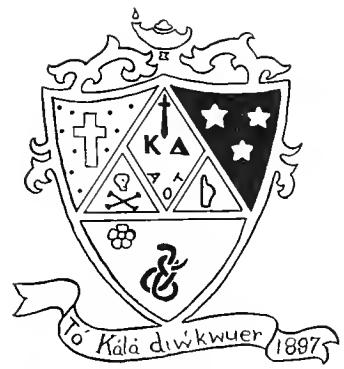

We played and we worked and we laughed and we sang,

And it was all nicer because we did it together.

A late start in the school year did not dampen the Pi Phis enthusiasm this fall, for we netted a class of perfect pledges. They were introduced at a formal dance by Hal Homann, Pi Phi M. C. The Black Hills of South Dakota came forth this year with our new province president. This was due to the rearrangement of provinces, ours now being Kappa Province. One of our angels, Nancy Klosterman, was chosen to show her ethereal talent in Ted Cloak's Christmas production. The ladies snatched many pieces of jewelry for their sweaters this year, as well as for their third digits. Guesss we are ignoring the curriculum and going in for the extracurricular activities. Our Christmas serenade proved most successful this year with the Sig Eps, with whom we also held a fraternity forum concerning the value and place of liberal arts in college today. The Pi Phis are busy thinking about furniture for our new rooms which we are hoping to occupy next fall. We livened up one of the basketball games this year with our outstanding talents. The active-pledge get-togethers were culminated this year with a gala Christmas party, which was completely planned by the pledges. Activation, after what seemed an eternity, brought our little sisters into the secret society. A traditional farewell party was held for the seniors, with good-byes being deeply regretted.

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCILS

Problems do arise, and the Greek groups are no exception. To cope with these problems, three councils exist on the Lawrence Campus.

The Pan-Hellenic Council, composed of the presidents and one representative from each sorority, meets bi-weekly under the guidance of Miss Morton, the Dean of Women. This council, with efficient organization and cooperation, solves any business concerning rushing, pledging, and minor mix-ups that involve the sorority gal.

Junior Pan-Hellenic is a "little sister" to the Pan-Hell Council. It capably handles pledge problems and the annual Christmas Party for the Oneida Indian children. The council has had four successful years of existence on the campus, and has indeed proven itself worthwhile.

Interfraternity sports, fraternity rushing, and pledge scholarship are three of the main concerns of the Interfraternity Council. This group, which meets weekly, is comprised of the five fraternity presidents and Dean Cameron. Through the skillful managing of this body, Greek warfare has been reduced to a minimum on the Lawrence Campus.

This was another grand and glorious year for the John Street boys. Rush week was a big success, and with Basileus kai Adelphoi Brax at the helm (sans robe and king-size prexy pin) we were off and running. Chal's had something to do with the student body (president, we think) and in his spare moments managed to run down a Phi Beta key the hard way—via Peabody. On the gridiron, I Q ("man without intellect would be no more than the brute") led a strong Beta contingent, while Hugs, who was also guilty of some fast work in another direction, captained the Beta-dominated cross country squad. "Committees" Delwiche lived up to his advance notices as social chairman, and in regard to the ol' zircon, he exceeded all expectations. Fat Sam took the cue from T V (famed ex-I F jock) and made a down payment on a real good piece of ice. While Deano was snug as the proverbial "bug in a rug," Freems nightly braved the frigid blasts of the cold, cold, cold porch for a little shut-eye. On the hard court a somewhat slimmed down Teddy Bear anchored the Viking five. Overnight, Nigs blossomed out into a three-sports star, and Jet managed the house in spectacular fashion—when he wasn't spinning one of his countless tales of his daredevil doings. Coach Schlick did a real good job with the frosh footballers, and Rastus managed an occasional sojourn to "Richard's." Of course, mealtime always brought the two Jims and Wayno (sir). Ol' Dad, the Cranberry King, with cohort Schmax, amused his freshmen with tall tales. To the seniors, we wish all the luck in Wooglin's world, but for the rest of us another year is beckoning, and we will be here.

Another year has passed at 218 South Lawe, and it is time for a little reminiscing about all the fun we had during that year. We began by being thrown into the general hubbub of rushing, and with Goose and Tish at the helm, we were once again lucky enough to "cop" the best pledge class in the Quad. All in all, we've had a good year—Tish, Gordie, and Seins with their chocolate whiskey—Fearless Freddie peddling his flowers—Manthey and Max spending most of their time in the card room (with Hudec as a third)—Nelson and Stodola competing with each other for the title of "Cuddles"—Bredeson dragging around with that tired, run down feeling as a result of football—Kayser and Fetterly dishing out the food in the kitchen—Snake Pit slinking around with that eternal sneer on his face—Goose practicing on his trombone out on the cold porch—Wolf and Mann studying diligently in their room while Haering looks on in bewilderment—Montag and Digger counting their (?) money—the sound of Murdock and Laycock's record players echoing through the halls—the sight of Thorsen walking out to the gym for the interfraternity sports—Walters learning how to play Sheephead—Rietz reforming from one bad habit to another—all of these flash through our minds as we think back. We sincerely want to express our heartfelt gratitude to the two fine ladies who kept us going, one by feeding us and the other by just being around when we needed her: Marie, our new cook, and Mother Pond, our wonderful house mother. Without them, we feel that the Delt House would be extremely empty.

Mrs. Lindsey welcomed the men of Sigma Phi back for the tenth time this fall (Brother Hartney holding the longevity trophy). The season started with a bang with twenty-one top pledges, among them several athletes to replace our departing road-runner (athleteicus Simondus). They immediately proceeded to raid the house and get the silverware. Fortunately for the peace of the house, a truce was arranged and hostilities abated. (However, the Big 21 later precipitated a minor skirmish when they abducted pledgemaster Ted and Tonto, the Sheboygan Red-skin, and deposited them in Green Bay and Menasha, respectively. The Homecoming celebration was highlighted by Sig Ep triumphs: first place in house decorations and second for the pledge float. An impromptu shower and wet pajamas ceremoniously climaxed the pin-dropping activities of a third of the brothers in this our wettest fall of recent years. Despite tight-wad Erdman's pleas for solvency, the social appetite of the chapter was whetted with a regal banquet at the Elks' Club, and a colorful pledge formal followed it. The pledge class threw a hayride for the actives, which found us jamming two racks. The climax to the fall season was a yuletide serenade with the Pi Phis, and the annual party for Appleton's underprivileged children in which Santa Claus Nye again showered the youngsters with gifts. It is with pleasure that we Siggies look back upon fall '55, and it is with eager hearts and poised pins that we now look toward spring '56.

Another summer passed by quickly, and things began to jump around the Phi House, though this year October replaced September as back-to-school month. Rushing was hectic as usual, and one of our greatest rushing personalities was gone this year—

King left us last spring. Despite these problems, rushing went on in high gear, engineered by the masterminds of the house, and when pledging was all over, most of us Phis had to blushingly admit that we had an outstanding pledge class. With this highly successful operation safely behind us, we stormed into the next battle with bayonets fixed, or perhaps spears bristling would be more appropriate, for this was Greek warfare. An unusual amount of talent, well supported by numbers, carried us decisively to the football championship, the men losing only the last game to a highly-touted "Tute" team. Turning from such organized type of battle to a more sudden and unruly type, few of us will forget the wild night in the Quad when we almost got "Woogs." He would have fallen for sure that night but for the sudden appearance of Dean Cameron, an independent force who quickly dispersed all warriors. Such glorious beginnings could only lead to another great year for the club at 711 East Alton, and such was truly the case. We humbly thank Mother Barney, Linda, Alma, and our beloved Mrs. P (who completed her seventh year with us) for their help throughout the year. None of us will ever forget these times, for it was a tremendous year for Wisconsin Beta of Phi Delta Theta.

Back again—the words have a magic all their own. Climb off the evening "400," hunt a cab, stow far too many bags in the trunk, and finally the moment when you stand by the open door. The handshakes could be "forced," so could the greetings, but not the sincerity unconsciously expressed; the sincerity which tells you that you're not just back, but wanted. It's hard to say goodnight when the time comes, because there's so much to discuss and plan. The kitchen is a blaze of lights and laughter for endless hours, while from the floors above comes the rumble of trunks, furniture, and drawers as the annual process of getting settled progresses. Old bulletin boards, desk lamps, rugs, boxes of books, and curtains appear one by one in study rooms, and the question on thirty preoccupied minds is "Where 'n heck did it all go last year?" It'll be another fabulous year. You know it will. Rushing, Homecoming, hayrides, formals, Christmas parties, the Spring Prom, any one of a hundred things to look forward to. It's almost a blow the day classes start. Ahead lie innumerable assignments, tests, themes, exams, good grades and bad; times when you're riding fine and times when you wonder if the army will be so bad after all. Within you is an odd sort of courage, for students are innately optimistic; and you, as an individual, and as a group are no exception. It'll be the best year yet.

Sigma Alpha Iota is a national professional fraternity for women in the field of music. It aims to further the development of music in America and to raise the standards of productive musical work among the women students of colleges, conservatories, and universities. Each year the members present a Contemporary American Musicale. S A I also annually sponsors a recital by a guest artist. Included in the fall activities were a musicale honoring new conservatory women, building a Homecoming float with the Phi Mus, monthly chapter musicales, and a Christmas party given by one of the patronesses. S A I and Phi Mu, after each Artist Series concert, held a reception at the Memorial Union in honor of the performing artist.

Occasionally we are so close to the finest in creation and performance of music, that we deride, criticize, and minimize any music other than the traditional classic or the more contemporary. Sinfonia, with its membership drawn not alone from professional musicians, but from economics students, chemistry majors, and others, believes in the ruthless amateur, the loud and unabashed amateur, the irresponsible and irreverent amateur, who plays music for no good purpose, but solely to the base and sordid end of having a good time. This year, as in the past, Phi Mu Alpha succeeded in sponsoring and bringing to the Lawrence Campus several worthwhile musical programs. Hail Sinfonia! and the individual members who participate in the musical events of Lawrence College.

Plagued by more than a normal share of misfortunes, coach Bernie Heselton's Viking football squad fought thru their poorest season in several years to emerge with a 1-3-1 record.

After the initial delay which forced the Vikings to cancel their first three games and withdraw from the conference for the season, the squad was continually hampered by injuries to key men. Co-captain Johnny Gundlach and fullback Tom Steger saw only limited action all season, and several other players were operating under handicaps most of the time.

With a team that showed only five lettermen in the starting lineup, Lawrence dropped the opening game to Grinnell by the biggest margin a Heselton-coached team has ever lost by and then bounced back to hold Ripon to a scoreless tie.

At Homecoming the Vikings turned in the upset of the season, defeating a powerful Carleton team, 6-0. The gridmen finished the season with losses to Cornell, 7-14, and Knox, 0-6, but the fact that only 20 points were scored against the Vikings in their last four games indicates the improvement in the squad.

FOOTBALL

There were several bright spots in the season, especially the performances of the newcomers to the squad. Soph backs Tom Compere and Jack Leatham ran well in several games, and linemen Ron Manthey, George Purucker, and John Winsor turned in good performances.

The veterans, led by Max Galler and Dick Rine in the backfield and lineman Bob Boeye and co-captain Bob Meyer showed well.

Only four regulars, backs Gundlach and Steger and linemen Boeye and Meyer, and reserve center Bob Sternitzky will be lost by graduation. With a number of seasoned performers and a good freshman squad to re-inforce them, the Vikes should substantially better this season's record next fall.

Led by captain Doug Hagen, the Viking harriers shook off the effects of the two week delay and finished the season strong, taking fourth place behind strong Grinnell, Monmouth, and Carleton teams in the Midwest conference cross-country meet. Hagen, who placed second in the 1954 meet, finished a somewhat disappointing sixth. Bob Negronida, who ran his best race of the season that day, and Chuck Merry were also among the top twenty finishers.

In dual meet competition, Lawrence defeated La-Crosse, and Ripon, and both Cornell and Knox in a triangular meet, while losing to the championship Grinnell team and dropping a decision to Carleton by a single point. Mike Simonds, along with Hagen and Merry, led the Vikes in dual competition.

Bending beneath the weight of the heavy blanket of snow that envelopes them, the trees move in rhythm with the North Wind. The River steams from the frigid temperature, and the black waters swirl under the crust of ice. Students scurry across campus to reach their classrooms with the least amount of exposure to the cold. To brighten the bleak days, Lawrentians occupy themselves with their favorite extra-curricular activities, and special occasions like Artist Series and the orchestra and band concerts provide variety for the routine day. Cheering for the team, the student body attends basketball games, swimming and wrestling meets. When Christmas rolls around, the spirit of charity makes every Lawrentian dig into his pocket to help the LUC drive. In keeping with the joyous time, conservatory and Greek choirs harmonize wonderful melodies in honor of the Christ child. Then, wading from beneath the deluge of papers and tests, students board trains and buses to journey homeward for a glorious two-week vacation. After the period of rest has dwindled to nothingness, everyone troops back to Appleton to face the approaching exam period. But climaxing that sleepless week, Winter Weekend allows the weary Lawrence family to relax and also to break a few bones. When the new semester starts, everyone actively improves his spiritual well-being by participating in the Religion-in-Life Conference. Then the whole student body disguises itself for fun and frolic at the Beaux Arts Ball. As the curtain falls on the cold season's activity, the snow-spangled trees bow proudly in the finale to a festive and fun-packed winter.

“SCHOOL FOR WIVES”

In the spring of 1955, The Lawrence College Theater presented its final play of the year, "School for Wives" by Moliere was produced arena style in the Viking Room of the Memorial Union. The play, a high comedy, was done on a black and white checkered linoleum with a very limited amount of scenery. It was the story of an elderly gentleman, Arnolphe, who had a young girl, Agnes, as his ward. He raised and educated her for the express purpose of marrying her when she came of age. Of course, Agnes had her own ideas and fell in love with Horace, the son of an old friend of Arnolphe's. Many complications arose, thanks to the all-knowing servants in the household, and, after the arrival of the fathers of the two young people, Agnes and Horace were allowed to marry . . . much to their joy and satisfaction and Arnolphe's unhappiness and amazement. Robert Smith, in his last performance for the theater, played Arnolphe with Connie Crowe as Agnes and Ron Seinwill as Horace. Other parts were played by Bruce Sielaff, Jan Cain, Dick Beringer, Bill MacArthur, Rolf Dehmel and Neil Lien. Mr. Richard Willis, the director, chose to do a translation of "School for Wives" by Mr. Warren Caryl of the French department. Members of the drama organizations Sunset and Heelers handled production for the show.

THE SORROWS OF CHESTER AVENUE

This year we were fortunate to produce as our first major show, an original script by Julius Landau, "The Sorrows of Chester Avenue." Mr. Landau stayed on campus during all the rehearsals and was chief consultant for the play. It was the first time the play was produced and also the first time the Lawrence College Theater had a world premier. "The Sorrows of Chester Avenue" was a wonderful experience for all those who worked on it. The entire campus was alive with excitement over the thought of the world premiere. The play was given in a three-sided arena in the Viking Room of the Memorial Union. The following students comprised the cast: Gordon Wagner, Bob Swan, Bob Finne, Mike Lepawsky, Al Bonde, Roberta King, Arlene Nelson, and Lynne Kaufman. "The Sorrows of Chester Avenue" was directed by Mr. Ted Cloak and the technical supervisor was Mr. Richard Willis.

In order to qualify for Sunset, the honorary drama organization on campus, one must put in a certain number of hours either in drama classes or working on theater productions. In the last year, Sunset initiated twelve new members who had fulfilled these requirements. Among these was Julius Landau, the author of "The Sorrows of Chester Avenue," who contributed greatly to the aims and ideals of the Lawrence College Theater. The officers of Sunset this year were Waneta Esch, president; Meridee Masterson, vice-president; Pat Dresback, secretary; and Gordon Wagner, membership chairman. The activities of Sunset included a tea in the fall for new students interested in drama and a coffee hour in February to discuss theater in general. Again this year Sunset members either worked on crews themselves or formed a committee to contact other students interested in crew work.

The Contributor is the college literary magazine published in the spring and fall. It contains the best of the student essays, poems, short stories, literary criticisms and art work submitted to the Contributor staff. The only college publication which presents the serious literary and artistic efforts of Lawrentians for the benefit of their fellow students, the Contributor also brings recognition to some outstanding campus writers and artists.

"This is WLFM, the radio voice of Lawrence College." FM listeners heard these words for the first time in March this year when the long-dreamed-of Lawrence College Radio Station became a reality.

Last year, through the interest of John Walter of station WJPG in Green Bay, a transmitter was given to the college. With this "go ahead" Joe Hopfensperger, Station Director, and the radio staff began setting up the framework of the station's operation.

This year, the station broadcasted every Saturday and will expand their schedule to weekday evenings next year. The broadcasting schedule includes jazz, classical, and foreign music; programs from the British Broadcasting Company and the Canadian Broadcasting Company; a travel series featuring our own Lawrentians; talks by Lawrence professors about their particular fields of interest. So, keep your FM radios turned to 91.1 and hear "the radio voice of Lawrence College."

The 1956 Religion in Life Conference had for its main speaker Dr. Roger Hazelton, of Andover Newton Centre, Massachusetts. The theme, "Faith Seeking Understanding," was an attempt to discover the role of religion in the life of the mind and of an institution like Lawrence College. The conference program included two addresses, a vesper service, two coffee hours, topic discussions, a forum, and dorm discussions.

The Lawrence United Charities drive is the only campus charity solicitation. The purpose of the drive is to give economic support to needy organizations and to educate Lawrence students in the meaning of giving. This year the 1,500 dollars collected went to benefit the Friends Indian projects in the Pacific Southwest, to buy books for the Pedagogische Hochschule in Berlin, and to aid an Austrian society, The Blinkers. The LUC also gave aid to the support of foreign students on campus with the 200 dollars collected from the sale of Christmas cards.

The Lawrence College Choir, under the skilled leadership of LaVahn Maesch, achieved a well-deserved reputation for musicianship and fine-spirited performance in their highly varied schedule this year. The group presented a coast-to-coast Christmas radio broadcast, an Artist Series concert, several convocation programs, a portion of the May Day celebration, and a joint performance with the concert band. Featured in this year's repertoire was the performance of the Bach Easter cantata, "Christ Lay In Death's Dark Prison," with string and harpsichord accompaniment. A northern spring tour took the choir to Wausau and Iron Mountain, climaxed by a television appearance in Green Bay. Grace Trester, Glynn Rounds, Ruth Johnson, Sue Blumer, Tom Mereness, and Carroll Gonzo were soloists.

The girls' glee club is a newly formed organization ably directed by Isabelle McClung. This group has performed at convocations as well as appearing on the coast-to-coast Christmas broadcast.

The group provides a wonderful musical experience for the girls as well as a background before admittance into the touring choir.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

Another of the Lawrence choral groups is the R.O.T.C. Male Chorus directed by George Cox. This group has performed for religious convocations and other special events during the year. A fitting climax for this season was a trip to Florida where the chorus sang at an airforce base.

Fred Schroeder,

The Lawrence College Band, conducted by Fred Schroeder, brings us concerts of a diversified selection of band literature, performed with professional ability.

The band performs not only at home, but also in surrounding towns in the area, giving a good demonstration of the reasons for the respect and admiration which it has gained over the years.

Although it may be hard to believe, the above "characters" are dedicated to bringing a greater appreciation and understanding of art to Lawrence. Every year the Lawrence Art Association, composed of students and residents of the area, sponsors a series of lectures and demonstrations on the various art media.

This season their activities included lectures on lacquer painting and photography, and the Vernissage, the annual exhibit of the work of the budding artists at Lawrence. The year was topped off with a picnic, very "arty" of course, for all members.

The Women's Recreation Association provides a varied and active sports program for Lawrence women. It sponsors activities in which they may develop new interests and skills, participate in their favorite team and individual sports, make new friends and just enjoy themselves.

The Intramural sports program is W.R.A.'s most important activity. The team sports are hockey, volleyball, basketball, softball, and mixed aerial darts. Individual sports such as golf, tennis, swimming, badminton, bowling, and table tennis are also offered. The sports managers arrange for both interclass and intersorority competition in the sports.

W.R.A. also sponsors special events. Between semesters they invite the entire school to Winter Weekend to ski, skate, toboggan and participate in other winter sports. Sororities compete in the annual Folk Dance Festival, presenting native folk dances from around the world. The year's activities are concluded with the W.R.A. banquet in the spring where awards are presented to deserving teams and individuals and the board. The girls are also entertained with humorous skits.

FOLK DANCE FESTIVAL

Second place Dutch dance by Delta Gamma.

An exuberant traditional German dance complete with swirling peasant skirts and "lederhosen" won the annual Folk Dance Festival for the Kappa Delta sorority.

Second place honors were awarded to Delta Gamma which presented a Dutch dance. Alpha Chi Omega was third with a Swiss dance.

Judges for the event, which is sponsored by WRA, were Mrs. George Cox, Mrs. Thomas Dietrich and Miss Olga Smith. The dances are judged on the basis of spirit, skill, and appropriateness of costumes.

After much deliberation this editor has come to the conclusion that Lawrence is blessed with a unique breed of female, part girl—part fish. No other creature would trudge through mounds of snow to make its weekly pilgrimage to the Alexander Gym to go swimming in the dead of winter.

Their cult, the Aqua-Fin Club, has acquired many devotees since it was founded four years ago and their annual rites have developed in both excellence and magnificence.

With Jim Sears and Dick Beringer the only returning regulars from last year's squad, Coach Bernie Heselton's matmen were presented with a serious rebuilding and reorganizing problem. As a result they suffered eight dual match setbacks and finished seventh in the conference. One redeeming feature of the season was a third place in a quadrangular match with Marquette, Milwaukee State, and Carroll College.

The team membership varied constantly during the year, but generally Dick Beringer wrestled 123, Bert Goldthwaite or Jim Sears 130, Sears or Randy Koser 137, Jim Davis 147, Jim Fetterly 157, John Chapman 167 or 177, and Bob Meyer heavyweight. Sears and Meyer were consistent point-getters during the season and both copped third places in their divisions at the conference matches.

Freshmen Doug Angevine, Paul Tuteur and John McConnell turned in good performances in exhibition matches.

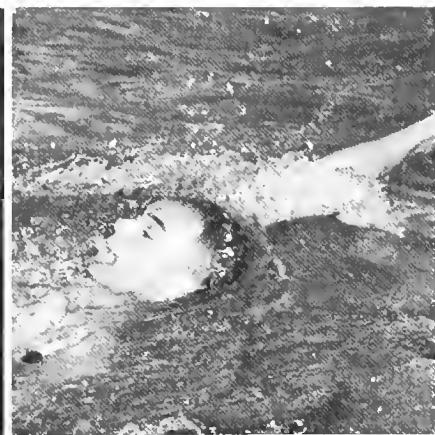

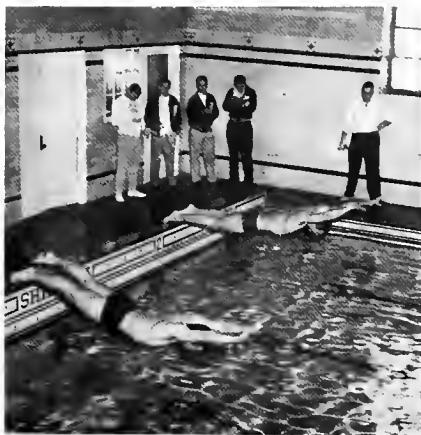

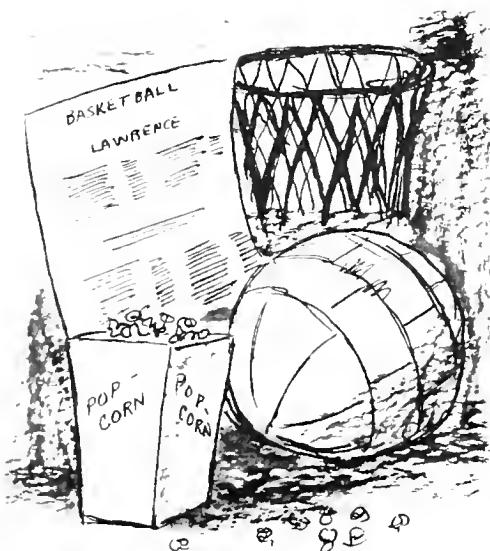

Cysewski, Dehmel, Dohr, Coach Anderson, Sprackling.

Despite the brilliant individual efforts of junior tankman Rolf Dehmel, Coach Roy Anderson's Viking mermen closed a dismal season with a seventh place finish in the Midwest conference swim meet. Dehmel, a consistent winner in the backstroke and medley during the year, scored all of the Lawrence points in the conference meet, and in doing so set a new conference record in the 200 yd. individual medley.

The team, composed essentially of Dehmel, Tom Sprackling, Pete Dohr, Bob Gramm and Joe Cysewski, and undermanned most of the year, did not score an official victory during the season. In spite of the poor showing, Anderson's prospects for the coming year look good. Only one letterman will be lost and Dick Bjornson, Bill Jenkins, Mike Lepawski, Ron Payette, and Bob Swain, five exceptional frosh prospects, present a strong core.

In his first year at Lawrence, Coach John Krause met with the problem of building a cage squad around a nucleus of only three lettermen. As a result, the Vike basketball season was anything but successful.

The squad, with Hal Homann, the team's leading scorer last year as a soph, letterman Mike Gahagen, Warren Manthey, and newcomers Neil Buck, Dick Rine, and Frank Cole comprising the regulars, opened the season by losing to Stevens Point and then bounced back to defeat Oshkosh State. From here on the Vikes went into a king-size tailspin, losing 17 straight games before they beat Ripon in the season finale, to compile an overall record of 2 wins and 18 losses. The record is deceptive, however; during the better part of the year, especially in the last eight games, the Vikings showed flashes of brilliance. In several contests they held substantial halftime leads, only to fade in the second half or closing minutes time and time again.

While Homann never regained the form he displayed as a soph, junior guard Dick Rine proved a bright spot. Rine, a standout as a playmaker, led the squad in scoring and at one time amassed a string of 31 consecutive free throws, a conference record. His play gained him honorable mention on the all-conference squad in his first competitive season. The fire and drive of soph reserve Billy Wood also brightened the otherwise dismal picture.

Since Krause loses only one regular and only 19 percent of the team's scoring punch by graduation, prospects for next year, with 10 veterans, appear much better.

John Prange
President, Ski Club

The Curling Club and the Ski Club are composed of Lawrence students who are interested in these sports, although they are not presented as official intercollegiate sports at Lawrence.

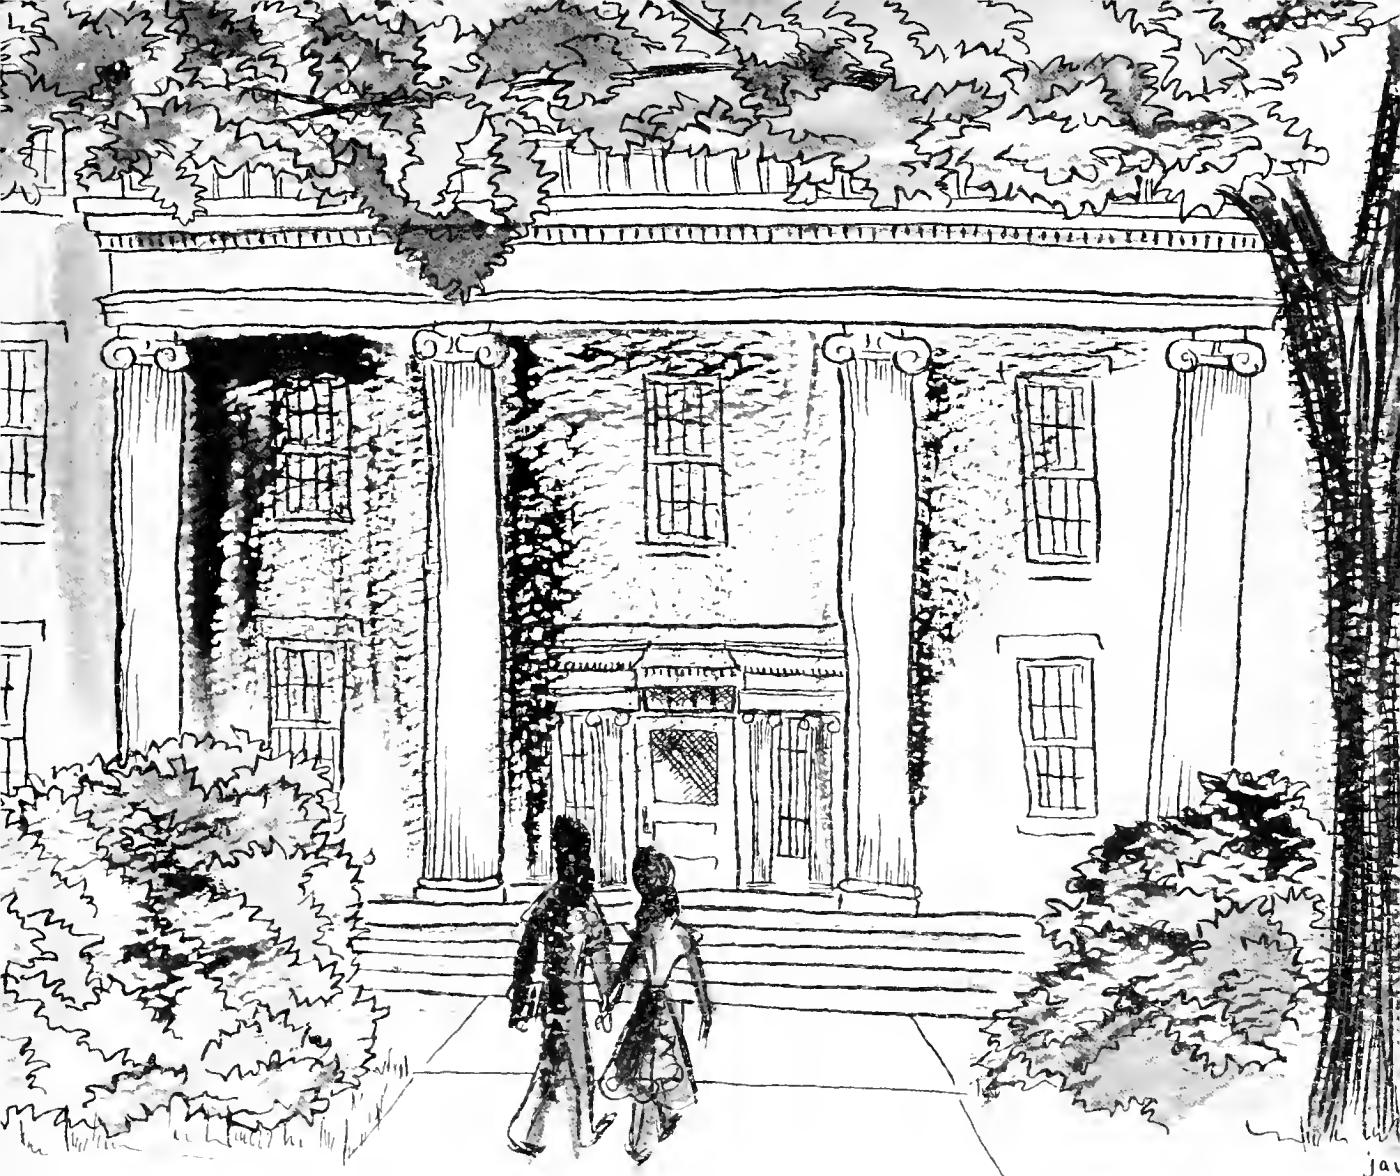

The Ski Club, this year headed by John Prange, has on several occasions taken charter trips to skiing areas in the northern part of the state and Michigan. Their activities have been dependent on favorable weather conditions. The Ski Team, a separate group, has in past years competed on an intercollegiate basis with several larger schools and fared quite well.

The Curling Club, under the direction of A. C. Denney, Lawrence College athletic director, uses the facilities of the Appleton rinks and has competed in several local and state bonspiels.

Each year W.R.A. sponsors a Winter Weekend for those interested in winter sports between semesters. On February 3 two bus loads of Lawrence students headed for Sturgeon Bay where they spent three days skiing, tobogganining, and ice skating at Potowatamie Park.

Dressed in their new springtime greenery, the trees dance with the warm breezes, curtseying in passing to the ever-present Fox River, itself adorned in the blueness of the sky and rippled gracefully by the gentle wind. At Lawrence spring is a season of renewed vigor after the bleakness of winter. Lawrentian and Ariel staffs work feverishly to complete their projects, breathing deeply that spring air when the job is done. Track, tennis, and golf teams practice hard to keep in the athletic spotlight. Getting rid of excess energy, sororities and fraternities frolic at their informal parties. Riotous picnics at Waupaca contrast with the dreamy atmosphere of the Prom which they precede. At the end of the year, honors shower down upon the heads of distinguished Lawrentians. Intellectual seniors sport new Phi Beta keys, and freshmen and sophomore women in Sigma and Pi Sigma glance hopefully at the new Mortarboards. The new men of Mace strut proudly across campus, and those senior women "best-loved" by the feminine population of the school do the minuet before their tear-faced benefactors. Strolling gracefully in their frothy formals, the May Queen and her court help to celebrate May Day. Finally, after the feverishness of exam week, comes the day long awaited by every senior—Commencement. As diplomas are distributed, the leaves of those perennial trees rustle jubilantly, announcing the completion of another prosperous school year at Lawrence.

Meet deadlines Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday . . . Plan page makeup, direct setting up of lead type Thursday . . . Issue rolls off the presses, distributed Friday . . . A sigh of relief? . . . No, the whole merry circle begins again with the editorial board meeting Friday noon and the assigning of stories over the weekend. With frightening regularity the deadlines came up, but the whole staff survived and with some highly successful issues to its credit.

Editor-in-chief Helen Casper, ably assisted by managing editor George Kreiling and later by Judy Dixon, steered the paper through a maze of issues on cars, laundry, and convos. Kay Bayer as business manager assisted by John Dyrud handled the ledgers, keeping the advertisers happy and the paper solvent.

A late stroller out for a walk past Main Hall this winter would probably have seen lights burning brightly in the basement. Had he stopped to peek in the windows, he would have seen the Ariel staff working diligently with typewriters and glue pots to meet a series of deadlines.

There were many moments when the smiling faces on these pages were creased with frowns of worry. Where are my pictures? Where is my copy? the Arielmen would yell. But, in spite of these minor catastrophes, the final deadline was met, and here IT is. We hope you like it . . . We do!!!

Each year Lawrence presents a varied intramural and inter-fraternity athletic program for those men interested in sports who do not compete in varsity athletics. During the various seasons of the year a wide range of sports is offered on both a team and individual basis, under the direction of the student intramural manager, this year Bob Meyer. In addition to an extensive inter-fraternity program, a series of all college events afford an opportunity for participation to any man in the college. The Institute of Paper Chemistry also competes in various phases of the program.

The fraternities compete for the Supremacy Cup, an award given each year to the fraternity compiling the greatest number of points in competition in the various sports throughout the year. The sports are divided into major and minor categories and points awarded accordingly. In connection with this program, the Lawrentian presents an award to the outstanding inter-fraternity athlete.

The "L" Club, or lettermen's club, is an organization of all the men at Lawrence who have won letters in varsity athletics. Its purpose is to convince students and faculty alike that there is more than personal glory or achievement to sports and that the values growing out of athletics are useful, and a small but important part of a liberal arts education.

This year under the direction of Bob Negronida, the "L" Club played a little-known but active part in campus activities. As usual, the club's program was built around a variety of projects in conjunction with the athletic department and the SEC new student week committee. Activities varied from the distribution of freshmen beanies to the handling of the concession stands at the home athletic contests. Until recent years the concessions were run by persons outside the college, but the lettermen now have the franchise and the funds raised from this and other projects are utilized in improving the athletic facilities at Lawrence and providing financial opportunities for needy students.

In the past few years the "L" Club has made several substantial donations to the campus. The basketball scoreboard and the public address system at Alexander Gymnasium are the most recent contributions.

Coach Art Denney's 1955 Viking cindermen closed one of their more successful seasons by duplicating last season's sixth place finish in the Midwest conference track meet. The fourth, fifth, and sixth place finishers were very tightly bunched. The Vikes showed no outstanding individuals, but placed men in several events. The loss of Doug Hagen, outstanding distance man who was undefeated in dual meet competition but did not run in the conference races, undoubtedly hurt the team.

Lawrence chalked up three victories in five dual meets, defeating Michigan Tech, Ripon, and Oshkosh State college and losing to a powerful LaCrosse squad and by a narrow margin to Stevens Point.

The squad was hampered by the loss of several outstanding performers from last year's team, but were led by veterans Doug Hagen and Mike Simonds in the distances, and Sal Cianciola and sophomore Tom Klingbiel in the dashes and field events. Dick Bundies in the hurdles and Jim Schlick and Bob Meyer in the weights were consistent point-getters for the Vikings.

Coach Bernie Heselton's Lawrence College golf team made up for a disappointing dual match record by copping third place in the 1955 Midwest conference golf match. The Vikings, led by Ron Kivell, who finished second by only three strokes in individual medalist score, were behind Carleton and three-time defending champion Knox in total team score. Lawrence has finished in one of the top three spots in conference play since 1945.

Dual match play showed only two victories over Ripon and losses to non-conference opponents Stevens Point, Michigan Tech, Marquette, and Oshkosh State twice, for a 2-5 slate. A late start and poor weather thru much of the season hampered the linksmen and carries much of the responsibility for this record.

Lettermen Ron Kivell and John Purves paced this year's squad, with letterman Corny Young and Kent Ziemann, Paul Morton and John Brunswick composing the rest of the team. Brunswick, who placed eleventh in the conference match, along with Morton, Ziemann, and Max Galler, another squad member, form a strong returning nucleus for Heselton's 1956 title hopes.

Lawrence's powerful net squad climaxed one of their most successful seasons in recent years by scoring 17 of a possible 18 points to walk off with the Midwest conference tennis championship. The Vikes won in every division except the no. 2 doubles. Soph Dick Rine took first in the championship singles, and no. 2 man Lee O'Neil, no. 3 Dick Gast, and no. 4 Dennie DeMets followed suit, carrying off first place trophies in their respective singles divisions. Rine and Gast then teamed up to win the no. 1 doubles crown and O'Neil and DeMets placed second in the no. 2 doubles, dropping their final match in three sets. The Vikes' record-breaking total almost doubled that of second place Carleton, the defending conference champs. Last year the Carls edged Lawrence by one point for the Midwest title.

Doubles Champions Rine and Gast.

The Vikings breezed thru their six dual meets, whitewashing conference opponents St. Olaf, Carleton, and Ripon, and defeating non-conference foes Oshkosh State, Stevens Point and Marquette. They dropped a total of only five individual matches in posting an unbeaten slate. Mac Powell, Wally Karst, and Bob Van Dale alternated at the no. 5 and no. 6 spots to aid the big four of Rine, O'Neil, Gast and DeMets.

After four years in the Lawrence A.F.R.O.T.C. a cadet receives the commission of 2nd Lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force. His training includes weekly classes and four weeks at a summer camp after his junior year. With this military know-how he is prepared to exchange "blue" Thursdays for three "blue" years.

A loop of white and gold braid over the left shoulder indicates a special breed of future Air Force men—members of the Arnold Air Society. Every year a group of junior cadets are elected to this group on the basis of scholarship and leadership ability.

This year offered a new highlight for these cadets. In February the group was invited to visit the newly established Air Force Academy in Colorado and enjoyed a week-end they'll not soon forget.

Standing: Honorary Squadron Commanders: Perry, Pusey, Merley, Potts, Grant.

Even the Air Force is not exempt from the intrusion of ladies. At the annual Military Ball sponsored by the Arnold Air Society six coeds chosen by the entire corps were crowned as Honorary Group and Squadron Commanders.

In addition to presiding over the dance, these girls were special guests at the annual spring review of the corps.

Shirley Cox and Ken Seefeld

Shirley Cox and Ken Seefeld reigned as the Union burst forth with colorful birds, Parisian flower markets, and sidewalk cafes depicting the "Le Printemps Chante" (Spring Sings) theme. Music to complete the spring atmosphere was provided by Don Delap's orchestra and LaMar Foth's "Templaires."

HONORS

With the occurrence of the annual Honors Day convocation a fitting and proper climax was made of the year's events. Outstanding students in their respective fields of study were bestowed with several of Lawrence's highest awards. This was only a partial expression of gratitude to these students for the contribution they had made to the college and community. The girl's athletic awards, the WRA Award and Pond's Sports Award, went to Carol Maertz and Donna Stark respectively. Dick Gast received the Iden Charles Champion Cup for his outstanding record, scholastically and athletically. Doug Hagen was honored with the De Goy B. Ellis trophy for being the highest scoring track man, and the Pond's Sports Award for men went to Sal Cianciola. Pat Barrett received the Lawrentian Intra-mural Award. Honor blanket recipients were Sal Cianciola, Dick Gast, Jim Schlick, Roger Stiles, and Phil Weber. The Supremacy Cup for intramural athletics went to Beta Theta Pi, and the Participation Trophy for varsity athletics went to Phi Delta Theta. Mary Lou Robinson was awarded the Performer's Prize in music for excellence of achievement. The Otho Pearre Fairfield Prize and Warren Hurst Stevens Prize scholarships were presented to Anne Shafer and Dave Challoner, respectively. By vote of the senior class Kay Bayer received the Spade and Dave Challoner the Spoon for being the outstanding junior woman and man. The highest award of the day, the Spector Cup, went to Nenah Fry. The senior recipient of this honor is determined by student body and faculty vote on the basis of high physical, mental, and moral qualities—all of which are found in the well-rounded student.

Phi Beta Kappa, oldest national fraternity, is symbolized by that gold key which is so widely known and so well deserved by those undergraduates receiving the honor of election to membership. Election is based on exceptional academic ability and leadership over the four years of study and it is held twice yearly—in fall and spring. Phi Beta Kappa gives recognition of these same qualities in underclassmen by awarding to the sophomore man who has achieved highest scholastic honors during his freshman year the Freshman Cup, and the Phi Beta Kappa scholarship to the junior who best fits the ideals of the society. Wally Chandler and Peggy Landis were the recipients this year.

SIGMA

Sigma and Pi Sigma were originated by Mortar Board to honor outstanding freshman and sophomore women, respectively. The freshmen are elected to Sigma according to their academic achievements during the first year.

The election to Pi Sigma is based not only upon excellence in scholarship but also upon service to the school. This recognition by Mortar Board provides quiet but highly significant satisfaction for these girls who have successfully coped with the challenges of the first two years of college life.

Election to Mace is one of the highest honors that can be conferred on a Lawrence man. Recipients of this honor are junior and senior men who display outstanding qualities in scholarly achievement, leadership, and constructive campus activities. Elections are held in May and February with the selection of junior and senior men, respectively, at those times.

Dr. William Raney, retiring history professor, was elected to honorary membership. The officers for this year were Dave Sackett, president, and Dick Beringer, secretary-treasurer.

Being one of the highest awards possible for any upperclass girl, the election to Mortar Board is a perfect climax in recognizing those girls who have displayed outstanding capabilities in the fields of leadership, scholarship, and service to the college.

This past year Miss Olga Smith was elected to honorary membership. Miss Smith, a Lawrence biology professor, has devotedly contributed to the science of biology and has been a long-time friend to her students.

Mortar Board participates actively in college activities. It is responsible for Sigma and Pi Sigma, and the election thereto; for the "smarty-party" honoring those girls of each class who attain the highest grade-points; and for the sponsoring of various campus projects.

Masterson, Wagner, Esch

This year the National Collegiate Players claims three students as members. Waneta Esch, Merridee Masterson and Gordon Wagner were elected in the spring of their junior year. These elections are based on scholarship and active work in the field of drama.

In conjunction with Sunset and the English department, the local chapter of National Collegiate Players sponsored Eric Salmon of Shropshire, England, who was currently visiting the United States to study urban and rural drama. Mr. Salmon gave a lecture on Shakespearean drama.

NATIONAL COLLEGIATE PLAYERS

Pi Kappa Lambda is a national honorary musical society whose purpose is to encourage eminent achievement in performance, original composition or musical leadership. A member of the Association of College Honor Societies, it bases its membership on practical musicianship as well as on high scholastic requirements.

Jean Balfé, a senior, and Ed Smith, a junior, were elected to membership this spring. David Bethe received the Pi Kappa Lambda sophomore award, which was founded this year.

The AFROTC students receiving this honor show definite aptitude for military service while achieving superior grades in their ROTC courses and while displaying leadership in campus activities and the undergraduate military program. These men must exemplify high moral character and other outstanding qualities in their three years on campus prior to the election to Distinguished Cadets in the senior year.

DISTINGUISHED CADETS

Blask, MacArthur, Burck, Van Dale, Mr. Cunningham.
Barden, Craig, Gross, Campbell.

This group is composed of outstanding students in the field of classics. A national honorary fraternity, it is dedicated to stimulating interest in the classics. Through discussions, informal parties, and lectures the group provides the students with the opportunity of developing a greater understanding and appreciation of the classics in relation to intellectual achievement and a productive and satisfying way of life.

Receiving this distinguished honor, upon election by upperclass women, is truly a memorable event for senior girls. It is impossible ever to say what constitutes sincere and enduring friendships—and for that reason this honor can most adequately be described as "Best Loved."

Rosemary Freeman, Frances Hillborn Flower Girls: Sarah Rowe, Peggy Reed.

The new born sunshine of spring is flowing down on the Lawrence campus. It's May Day and Mother's Day and the happy crowd is witnessing the procession of the 1955 May Queen and her court, all members of the senior class. The queen is crowned by her predecessor and the afternoon's event is completed by the performance of the winning sorority folk dance, selections by the choir, and the presentation of roses to counselors, women Phi Beta Kappas, members of Mortar Board, and the dean and house mothers. After this official honor to spring and women the crowds stroll up from the lovely river bank to our Union for a reception and open house.

MAY DAY QUEEN AND COURT

This traditional honor bestowed upon a select few of Lawrence's sophomore, junior, and senior girls is awarded on the basis of the girls' contributions to school life in general and their personal qualities as displayed in association with others. Their friendliness, charm, intelligence, and attractiveness provide the basic attributes which contribute toward their popularity on the Lawrence campus.

We of the 1956 Ariel staff wish to end our yearbook by commemorating Miss Edith Mattson, whose unselfish service to Lawrence spanned a period of almost twenty-five years. As dietician of the largest women's dormitory on campus, Miss Mattson constantly concerned herself with producing well-balanced, good-tasting meals, not only for health's sake, but because she wished every girl to delight in eating every meal. With scrupulous care, this attentive housekeeper kept her gigantic abode in perfect order, and took special pains to subdue the impersonal atmosphere of a dormitory in favor of an intimate, home-like feeling. Miss Mattson's life was one of altruistic magnanimity, with no thought of recompense. Her generosity and concern for the well-being of others will long be remembered by those who have eaten in her dining room and lived in her Sage.

IN MEMORIAM

Sounds strange, doesn't it? Yet that's something you probably won't remark—at least not with the same inflection—a few short years from now. We mention this now, because now is the time to do some intelligent thinking about it. If you heed this advice NOW, there'll be a smile in your voice when you re-read it later, as you page through this book of wonderful memories—perhaps with your family—several years from now.

You'll be needing life insurance then. We'd like to point out several important things about it.

First, the younger you are when you take out your life insurance, the lower your annual payments will be. So the sooner you start, the less you'll have to pay each year.

Next, there are three basic types of life insurance contracts—term, whole life, endowment—and scores of variations and combinations. They differ in what they can do for you.

There are also three types of life insurance companies: 1) a stock company with board of directors elected by personal or proxy vote of stockholders who profit from its operation; 2) a mutual with directors elected by personal or proxy vote of policy-holders who participate in its earnings; and 3) a fraternal, like the Aid Association for Lutherans, with board directly elected by insured member-owners who share their organization's savings.

Finally, you should realize that with so many companies and so many kinds of insurance contracts, it is difficult to select the particular one that is best for you. Our advice—don't try. Instead of selecting a contract, select a good life insurance counselor.

think of my wife?"

"The Chinese began it, say the books; in so doing they laid the foundation for the modern world, which has been built on the records of the past and the diffusion of ideas through the written and printed word. Lacking paper, history would be almost a blank; geography still a fable; poetry a harper's song; trade a matter of simple barter . . . each generation, instructed only by word of mouth by elders schooled through crude experience, would have had to repeat the errors of its forefathers, and all human knowledge would have been at the mercy of precarious memory.

"Likewise, if these great paper machines should be stilled forever, our civilization could hardly rally from the shock. . . . Thanks to the art of printing and its sister arts, civilization is better insured against disaster than it once was; local misfortunes might force upon it a change of base and scene, but hardly more, while paper continues to be printed."

—ARTHUR POUND

WE ARE IN BUSINESS . . .

. . . to supply our customers with the highest quality book paper at a price which enables them to remain competitive. . .

. . . to operate and maintain a paper mill which insures steady employment at good wages for our employees, and which will be a credit to our community.

. . . to earn sufficient profit so that a portion can be put back in the business to keep the mill modern and growing and to pay adequate dividends to stockholders for the use of their money.

PATHS TO PROGRESS

To keep pace with competition, American industry must grow—must develop new markets for its products. And, to keep pace with the competition they will face in the business world, our nation's students must grow—must develop their talents and knowledge.

From pulpwood to finished product, Marathon Corporation must blend knowledge, experience and modern machinery to improve its food packages and paper products for home and industry. And, from their school years through business careers to follow, our nation's students must blend natural ability with acquired education to make the most of their talents and knowledge.

A progressive student, like a progressive company, can plan for a promising future.
